

I was raped...

In my home by a stranger. I had no idea how I was going to get through something like that. But I think if you hide from it, you're letting it control you.

It's too much to carry on your own. If you don't tell someone what's happened to you, how are they going to help you?

You've got to talk about it.

My name is Christine, and talking about the rape is a large part of the reason I'm here today.

It keeps me strong.
